- Q1. Discuss the conditions under which Indian states underwent linguistic re-organisation. How far linguistic re-organisation of states helped in meeting the aspirations of citizens? (15 Marks) (250 Words)

India is home to one of the largest linguistic diversities in the world. Before Independence, organizing the country on linguistic basis was considered by Nehru Report (1928). However on the eve of Independence, India had divided provinces into 4 categories - Princely States, Governor's Provinces, Chief Commissioner's provinces & Islands of Andaman & Nicobar.

Linguistic Reorganization and Citizens' aspirations

1. U/A 343 Govt. of India decided to make Hindi the official language. This was followed by imposition of Hindi by the Hindi Protagonists. Thus, cultural & lingual heritage of people was in danger.

2. With linguistic reorganisation,

- cultural heritage has been preserved.
- Territorial Integrity has strengthened
- Imparting Education in vernacular language has increased literacy levels.
- Sense of security among the people.
- Better and effective administration & representation.

Thus, linguistic reorganisation has effectively strengthened India's core value of 'Unity in Diversity'.

On the eve of Independence, there were several challenges to face for the Indian Union. Consolidation of the Union was yet to be completed, violence had to be curbed, influx of refugees had to be managed, etc. One of the medium term challenges was the integration of tribes into the Indian Society. Challenges faced in the integration of tribes were:

challenges faced in Integration of Tribes

- ① Isolated Tribes were not aware of the happenings around them.
- ② Economic and Technological backwardness.
- ③ Preservation of tribal culture and heritage
- ④ Development: holistic and overall social & economic development was required.

Sound analysis

Tribal rights were to be looked after.

Remarks

Assimilation of Tribes

There were various theories on how to integrate tribes ~~are~~ into the Indian Society:

1. Isolation: This meant that tribes should be isolated by allowing self-governance and self-determination.

However, this defied the goals of Socialist Democracy which India aspired to be.

2. Assimilation: This meant gradual transformation of tribes by equipping them with modern means and ensuring preservation of their cultural values and rights at the same time.

This clearly was the best policy option.

- Q3. Despite the fact that Privy Purse were against the spirit of equality under the Constitution, they were offered to convince the princely states to surrender their sovereignty to India. Discuss. (15 Marks) (250 Words)

Privy Purse were annual allowances paid to the princes of erstwhile princely states of British India in exchange for their territory.

Privy Purse : against important tool for integration of princely states

Sardar Patel was the head of Department of State. His secretary - V.P. Menon and Patel himself are responsible for consolidating the Indian Union. To integrate princely states into the Union of India, Patel used several tools ~~to~~, one amongst them being Privy Purse. These payments varied from state to state and was dependent on revenue of states.

Remarks

Sound explanation

These sums ranged from ₹ 5000 p.a. to ₹ 26 Lakh p.a. and were guaranteed by a provision in the Constitution of India, Article 291.

Privy Purse: against spirit of equality

Privy Purse were abolished in 1971 through the 26th Constitutional Amendment Act, 1971. These were abolished because:

1. These Privy Purse were questioned as a relic of past.
2. It was against the existing egalitarian social order.
3. These constituted significant outlay of government expenditure.
4. Against the ideal of equality guaranteed by the Constitution.

Remarks

Focus on arguments showing how it was against spirit of equality under the Constitution.

-ted by Articles 14, 15 and 16 of the Indian Constitution.

5. The royal families were already well-off and after signing of instrument of accession, they were allowed to hold their own private property which was above average. Therefore, any additional amount given to them did not make any sense, when there was rampant poverty and inequality in the country to be dealt with.

Thus, Privy Purse were crucial in signing of instrument of accession to the Indian Union, but these lost their relevance after a few years and were against the fundamental right of equality before law (Article 14).

Better discuss constitution of spirit being violated expressly.

(15 Marks) (250 Words)

Indian economy at independence was endowed with several challenges in the political, social and economic spheres, many of which were to continue decades later are still persistent today. In the period of mid 1960s and end of 1980s, India stumbled across several challenges.

Just focus on given period of time only.

Challenges during mid-1960s and end-1980s

1. Wars with Pakistan: in 1965 and 1975 had rendered huge losses on the Indian Economy.
2. Droughts and Environmental problems: Droughts were quite regular during this time period.
3. High Fiscal deficit: During this period,

4. National Emergency during 1975-77

5. Regressive Industrial Regime: with 'licence Raj' and very ~~tough~~ entry into the market.

However, there were several achievements in this time-period which tried to pull the economy out of the economic crisis.

Achievements during 1965 - 1990

1. Green Revolution: Green Revolution accelerated agricultural productivity exponentially and its effects were seen as India attained self-sufficiency in feedgrains. This meant lesser reliance & on advanced countries.

Remarks

2. Pokhran I: Smiling Buddha: was the first Nuclear test in India in 1974. This demonstrated India's strength in Nuclear energy and showed India credibility & sufficiency.

3. Industrial Growth: By restricting foreign companies, Indian companies could gain momentum. Several companies gained in this time period - eg - Reliance, Infosys, Tata Group, etc. This also demonstrated the self-sufficiency of India.

4. Nationalisation of Banks and establishing institutions for rural credit like NABARD which ensured rural development.

Thus, during mid-1960s and end-1980s, India although faced several challenges, but was able to achieve self-sufficiency in many domains.

- Q5. Evaluate the Nehru's role in development of free India. Explain how his tenure can be remembered as bedrock of democracy in India. (15 Marks) (250 Words)

Nehruvian Era (1947-1964) is the term given to the period ~~of~~ of Indian economy led by 1st Prime Minister of India - Pt. Jawaharlal Nehru. This period was crucial in setting the bedrock of democracy in India and defining the path of development for Independent India.

Sound intro

Nehru's role in development:

1. Central Planning: Nehru was crucial in setting up Planning Commission in 1950 which designed 5-Year Plans. This system of planning ensured uniform and equitable development.

2. Infrastructure development: Nehruvian Era laid emphasis on infrastructure development. Several dams and highways were constructed for better facilities.

Remarks

3. Heavy Industries were crucial for capital formation in country. Mahalanobis Model or the 2nd FYP in 1956 was the base for many subsequent FYPs.

Good analysis of Nehru's role

4. Research Organisations: Nehru established ~~IIT~~ IIS and several other research organisation to leverage R&D for development.
5. Education: Indian Institute of Technology (IITs) were set-up in line with MIT.
6. Small Scale Industries: were established to encourage cottage industries and overall development of the economy.

Nehru's role in development of free India was crucial in defining the core ideals of the economy. This era witnessed a GDP growth rate of more than 4% which was a rarity in those days.

Nehruvian Era: Bedrock of democracy

Remarks

1. 1st Elections in 1951 was based on Universal adult franchise (UAF) with all those above 21 years having right to vote.
  2. Electoral reforms: Voter ID, Model code of conduct, were ensured by the Election commission.
  3. Role of Opposition: Nehru was the PM for 17 years, however, he faced a no-confidence motion in 1962 and opposition was crucial in bringing several reforms. Thus, a true democracy was established in this time period.
  4. Hindu Code Bills: were a step towards Uniform Civil Code (UCC) as listed in Article 46 of the constitution.
- 1 2 5. Linguistic Reorganisation: by setting Andhra Pradesh in 1953 and this was followed by ~~other~~ other states as well. Thus, Nehruvian era ensured free and fair electoral politics and upheld the ideals of democracy, laying the foundation for world's largest democracy.

It was National

Internal Emergency (U/A 352) was proclaimed by Fakhruddin Ali Ahmed upon request by PM Indira Gandhi in June 1975.

Context in which National Emergency of 1975 was imposed:

1. JP Movement: taken up by Jayaprakash Narayan, called for 'Total Revolution' against corruption in the system. JP went beyond Bihar to try and draw rest of the country into the protest with the aim of bringing down Indira Gandhi's Government which was portrayed as corrupt and undemocratic.

2. Allahabad High Court Decision: declared

Remarks

Indira Gandhi's election to Lok Sabha in 1971 invalid on grounds of: electoral malpractices, excessive election expenditure, using government machinery for party purposes.

JP Movement revived with greater zeal, demanding Indira Gandhi's resignation.

4. Nationwide agitation and announced of civil disobedience was made. Citing these reasons, Indira Gandhi recommended to the President to declare Internal Emergency.

State of Emergency

This was initially welcomed by middle classes due to being tired of protests everywhere. Crime rates came down & there were improvements in admin.

Remarks

Keep this aspect minimum & focus on how it suppressed democratic rights.

2. Provincial istration with increased discipline.

However by mid-1976, excesses during Emergency came across:

1. Suspension of Fundamental Rights & civil liberties
2. Forced sterilization of population.
3. Censorship
4. Reduced powers of Judiciary
5. DPSR made more powerful than Fundamental Rights
6. Parliament was ineffective & States were strictly controlled.
7. Unprecedented levels of arrests made during this period.

Administrative machinery Inherited from Colonial Regime :

1. Central Government: was Bicameral according to Government of India Act, 1919 and 1935. There were 2 houses - Federal Assembly and Council of States with 3 lists for legislation - federal, provincial & concurrent. There were separate electorates for various communities.

Remarks

Try to read the demand of given question carefully

2. Provincial Government: Governors had extensive powers and communal electorates were present. Provincial Autonomy was present, however Governor's unprecedented powers were more prominent.

3. civil service: had little scope for promotion of Indians to higher ranks.

4. Viceroy's executive powers: were huge & could reverse assembly's decision.

Thus, such a system clearly worked to foster British profits and did not suit the needs of Indians.

Administrative Reforms by the Government of India

1. reservations instead of separate electorates to represent minorities

2. Universal Adult franchise (UAF): Right to vote to all above 21 years of age.

Remarks

3. Free and Fair elections through transparent election electoral reforms.

4. Local Self Government: the 73rd & 74th constitutional amendment Acts gave huge impetus to local self government. This ensures wider participation at the primary level through a system of Gram Panchayats, Municipalities & Municipal corporation.

5. Civil Services: the Constitution of India mandates UPSC, SPSC and if need be TSPSC to recruit civil servants for smooth functioning and administration by the Government.

6. Inter-state Councils for better communication among states & centre.

7. Tribunals: to ensure faster remedies to disputes obstructing administrative machinery.

Q8. Discuss the process of integration of Sikkim to India. Also analyze, why it is considered to be a unique example of integration of a territory? (15 Marks) (250 Words)

Sikkim as a state came into being in 1642 under Chogyal Dynasty. Later, in 1890, it came under British Rule and became a protectorate of State of British. It acted as buffer state between China & British India.

Upon Independence of India in 1947, Sikkim did not become a part of India due to resistance of Chogyals in Sikkim towards integration with India.

Protectorate of India

Government of India signed a treaty in 1950 with Chogyal of Sikkim which in effect made Sikkim a protectorate of India and this also resonated the fact that Elections → Chogyal's opponents won an overwhelming victory and they requested India to admit Sikkim into the Union of India. In 1975, following 35th Constitutional Amendment, Sikkim was made the 22nd state.

Unique example of Integration

1. Protectorate of Indian Union till 1975
2. Declared Independence in 1947 but the monarchs were thrown over by public.
3. Public's role was unique here as it showed that real power lies in the hands of people.

- Q9. Lal Bahadur Shastri's tenure was full of challenges not only within but also outside the territory of India. Discuss the policies adopted by him to solve problems of India in prevailing circumstances.
(15 Marks) (250 Words)

After Jawaharlal Nehru's death in 1964, Lal Bahadur Shastri assumed the role of Prime Minister of India. His tenure was characterized by several internal & external challenges faced. However, his effective leadership helped India in progressing forward.

sound intro

Internal challenges

1. Anti-Hindi Demonstrations in Tamil Nadu.
2. Food Shortages: there were series of droughts in 1962 and 1963 and there tends to was heavy dependence of the economy on food imports.
3. 1962 War: people were still wary of the negative impact of Sino-Indian War of 1962.

Remarks

External Challenges

Sound analysis of challenges

1. Indo-Pakistan War, 1965: India was still recovering from the losses of Sino Indian war of 1962, when General Ayub Khan decided to attack India in 1965.
2. Closeness of Pakistan with US & China: was a big threat to India.

However, policies adopted by Lal Bahadur Shastri showed ~~the sign~~ his strength of mind.

Policies by Lal Bahadur Shastri

1. Green Revolution and White Revolution to counter the problem of food shortage. Green Revolution involved a 3-fold thrust - technological, economic & organisational. FCI & APC came into being and there was huge emphasis on white revolution as well.

Remarks

2. Shastri ensured that English would continue to be used as official language to sab Anti-Hindi protests.
3. Skip a Meal: to avoid chronic food shortage.
4. New Institutions & Projects: NIT, Allahabad, Central Institute of Technology, Study of Nuclear Explosions for Peaceful Purposes (SNEPP) under H. Bhabha.
5. War efforts: Participation of Indian Air Force for the 1st time in 1965. The war also ended with Tashkent Agreement.
6. Jai Jawan Jai Kisan: aptly reflected Shastriji's view that security of nation upheld by soldier is closely linked with food security.
Thus, Shastriji's policies were successful in overcoming several internal & external challenges.

The Zamindari and Ryotwari systems of government in Colonial Era, had rendered the agricultural sector plagued with several problems:

1. Land inequality: Actual cultivators of lands were tenants or share-croppers working on a piece of land of rich landlords & zamindars.
2. Agricultural Productivity: was very low as the actual landowners had no incentive to invest in capital.
3. Technological Innovation: was absent in agriculture. Traditional irrigation methods, dependence on rainfall, etc. made agriculture regressive.

Therefore, the Indian Government decided to initiate land reforms programmes soon after independence.

Remarks

- ① Abolition of Zamindari was the most effective land reform.
- ② Tenancy Reforms: Since major proportion of cultivators were actually tenants, tenancy reforms were introduced. Various measures were adopted:
  - a. Regulation of Rent: cap of 25% was put in place
  - b. Ownership rights: given to tenants cultivating in a field ~~for a specific period~~.
- ③ Land Ceiling: ceiling of 15 acres was put forward ~~on ownership of land~~.
- ④ Land consolidation: was introduced to overcome the problem of land fragmentation.
